Fee Presentation

Fees presented in this document are either flat, variable, or tiered.

- A flat fee is a fixed amount billed for the product or service as defined in the billing event description. Other details about how the fee is applied, such as the unit of measure and frequency, also may be provided to further clarify.
- A variable fee is an amount that can change depending on the type of service provided. For example, reimbursement for travel expenses is a variable amount.
- A tiered fee is one that is determined based on a series of rates provided in a tiered rate table included in the billing event description.

Tiered Fees

Tiered fees allow customers to benefit from economies of scale. Tiered fees are defined in the billing event description as being Progressive, Standard, or Flat. Total fees for events that have a Progressive Tier or Standard Tier tiered rate structure are calculated by multiplying the appropriate rate by the total number (Transaction Volume) or the total monetary value (Transaction Amount) of applicable transactions. The rate for the tier is applied to the transaction volume or the transaction amount up to and including the Tier Ending Value. The total fee for an event that has a Flat Tier rate structure is the amount indicated for the appropriate tier (i.e. there is no calculation based on quantity or amount).

For the examples in this section, refer to the Sample Tiered Rate Table below to see how a fee is calculated using the values in a tiered rate structure.

Sample Tiered Rate Table

Tier	Tier Ending Value	Rate
1	50,000	USD 0.020
2	100,000	USD 0.015
3	Greater than 100,000	USD 0.010

Progressive Tier Fees

When a tier is Progressive, one or more rates in the tier will be applied to calculate the final fee.

Example 1

In this example, Progressive Tier tiered rates are used to calculate a weekly fee billed to a customer who has a transaction volume of 75,000 transactions for the week. Considering the progressive rate for each tier, the total fee would be  $(50,000 \times \text{USD } 0.020) + (25,000 \times \text{USD } 0.015) = \text{USD } 1,375.00$ , or an average of USD 0.0183 per transaction.

Example 2

In this example, Progressive Tier tiered rates are used to calculate a weekly fee billed to a customer when the total applicable transaction amount is USD 75,000.00. Considering the progressive rate for each tier, the total fee would be  $(\text{USD } 50,000 \times \text{USD } 0.020) + (\text{USD } 25,000 \times \text{USD } 0.015) = \text{USD } 1,375.00$ , or an average of USD 0.0183 per transaction.

Standard Tier Fees

When a tier is Standard, only one rate in the tier will be applied to the total volume or total amount to calculate the final fee.

Example 3

In this example, Standard Tier tiered rates are used to calculate a weekly fee billed to a customer who has a transaction volume of 75,000 transactions for the week. The Standard Tier fee is applied to the total volume of 75,000 transactions; therefore, the fee in Tier 2, USD 0.015, would apply to all 75,000 transactions resulting in a total fee of  $75,000 \times \text{USD } 0.015 = \text{USD } 1,125.00$ .

Example 4

In this example, Standard Tier tiered rates are used to calculate a weekly fee billed to a customer when the total applicable transaction amount is USD 75,000.00. The Standard Tier fee is applied to the total value of all applicable transactions; therefore, the fee in Tier 2, USD 0.015, would apply to the amount USD 75,000.00 resulting in a total fee of USD 75,000.00 x USD 0.015 = USD 1,125.00.

Flat Tier Fees

When a tier is Flat, the amount charged is the fee indicated for the appropriate tier.

Example 5

In this example, Flat Tier tiered rates are used to calculate a weekly fee billed to a customer who has 75,000 transactions for the week. The number of transactions, 75,000, is included in Tier 2; therefore, the total fee billed would be USD 0.015.

Billing Process

MCBS collects and processes information about products, programs, and services billable to a customer. For MCBS purposes, a customer/ICA is defined as any institution to which a MasterCard ICA number has been assigned.

MCBS bills and collects charges incurred on a daily and weekly basis using one of the following methods:

- Debit Demand Deposit Account (DDA)—This method collects funds from MasterCard customers that are members of the Automated Clearing House (ACH) with valid deposit account numbers and transit routing numbers. Collecting through an ACH drawdown is mandated unless a customer is unable to obtain a Debit Demand Account (DDA) due to restrictions within their region. MCBS typically uses this method of collection to collect weekly fees.
- Clearing—This method collects funds from MasterCard customers that have a connection with the MasterCard Global Clearing Management System (GCMS). Collections will be made through an IPM Fee Collection/1740 message through GCMS. Daily fees typically are collected through Clearing.

Customers should be aware that MasterCard could collect for fees and services prior to the ICA going live. In addition, customers must give authorization to their ACH bank to accept MasterCard drafts. MasterCard drafts can be identified with the following company id - 1952536378.

For MasterCard Asia Pacific Pte Limited customers - 1222222220

MasterCard offers a number of reports to assist customers in reconciling their MCBS fees. Please refer to the MasterCard Reports Manual for a complete list of mandatory and optional reports available.

Billing Frequency

Invoices are processed weekly except for the following recurring fees:

- Cross-border and Merchant Investment Fee (MIF), which are invoiced daily
- MasterCom fees, which are invoiced monthly

- Volume fees, Card fees, and the Minimum Volume fee, which are invoiced quarterly on the last Sunday of the month following the quarter close.

MasterCard Billing Correction Policy

Customers are expected to review and reconcile billings to their financial records and report any discrepancies in a timely manner. Accordingly, MasterCard will issue reimbursement credits and collection debits for amounts greater than 25 units of the billing currency (for example, USD 25.00) per ICA number for a maximum of 12 months from the date that the error is made. These adjustments are issued as a miscellaneous credit or debit directly from MCBS. MasterCard aims to prevent billing errors and has numerous procedures and controls in place to ensure accurate billing.

Reimbursements and collections are subject to a series of internal reviews and approvals, depending on the values involved. Customers should contact their Customer Operations Services representative for follow-up and status, as needed.

Daily Clearing Incoming—DI

The Daily Clearing Incoming service bills customers based on their daily incoming intercountry dollar volume processed through the Global Clearing Management System (GCMS).

Daily assessments are billed using the U.S. dollar amount determined on intercountry financial detail transactions processed through the clearing facility. The U.S. dollar amount used to bill issuing and acquiring volumes is the clearing issuer-calculated amount. Each financial detail transaction is identified by processing code. The following codes are used for daily assessments: 00 (Purchases), 20 (Credits), 12 (Cash Disbursements), and 18 (Unique Transactions).

Currently, daily assessments are collected in U.S. dollars through settlement; therefore, assessment billing will be one day behind the clearing data used for the assessment.

Following is the schedule for a non-holiday week:

Daily Clearing Outgoing—DO

The Daily Clearing Outgoing service bills customers based on their daily outgoing intercountry dollar volume processed through the Global Clearing Management System (GCMS).

Daily assessments are billed using the U.S. dollar amount determined on intercountry financial detail transactions processed through the clearing facility. The U.S. dollar amount used to bill issuing and acquiring volumes is the clearing issuer-calculated amount. Each financial detail transaction is identified by processing code. The following codes are used for daily assessments: 00 (Purchases), 20 (Credits), 12 (Cash Disbursements), and 18 (Unique Transactions).

Currently, daily assessments are collected in U.S. dollars through settlement; therefore, assessment billing will be one day behind the clearing data used for the assessment.
